CANDY WORLD DRINKS N' TREATS

Store Front • Food Truck • Treat Shipping

HOMEPAGE REDESIGN · BEFORE & AFTER

Your new homepage

What changed on your homepage, section by section, and why each change helps more visitors order treats and book the truck.

PREPARED FOR	Jessica Jackson
DATE	November 8, 2026
DESIGNED BY	MigsFlow Web Design

AT A GLANCE

THE SHORT VERSION

Same sweet treats. A homepage that sells them.

Your treats, photos and 5-star reputation were already excellent. The old homepage just didn't say what Candy World is, show off your reviews, or tell visitors what to do next. The new one does all three, in your colors.

~~8.1s~~ 1.5s

For the main image to show on a phone. Google's goal is under 2.5 seconds.

5.0 ★★★★★

Your Google rating from 2,300+ reviews is now in the first screen. Before, it wasn't on the site.

~~4~~ 3

Clear buttons in the first screen: Shop Treats, View Our Menu and Book the Truck.

97–100

Google's phone speed score, plus 100 for accessibility, best practices and search basics.

The new homepage, top to bottom

1. Hero
2. Featured treats
3. Services
4. About
5. Reviews
6. Contact & map
7. Footer

Every section has one job and ends with a clear next step.

THE LOOK

COLORS & STYLE

A sweet, well-planned theme

Colors pulled from your logo

Berry
Headings and buttons

Deep berry
Text, top bar, reviews

Sunshine yellow
Main buttons, stars, waves

Baby blue
Soft backgrounds

Blush
Hero and cards

Fonts

Fredoka
Round, bubbly headings that match your logo

Poppins
Clean, easy-to-read text on any screen

Signature touches

Wavy dividers
A yellow wave flows between every section, like a ribbon of candy.

Outlined headings
Big outlined words like “OUR TREATS” sit behind each section title.

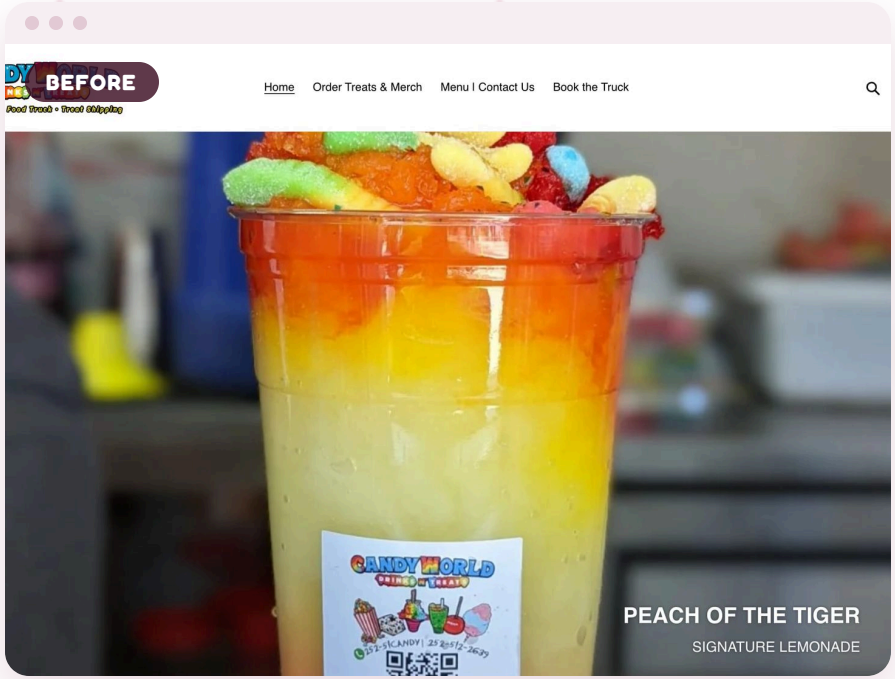

Floating candy shapes
Soft blobs, sprinkles and candy doodles drift slowly in the background.

Slow fade-ins
Sections fade and slide in as you scroll, and headings appear letter by letter.

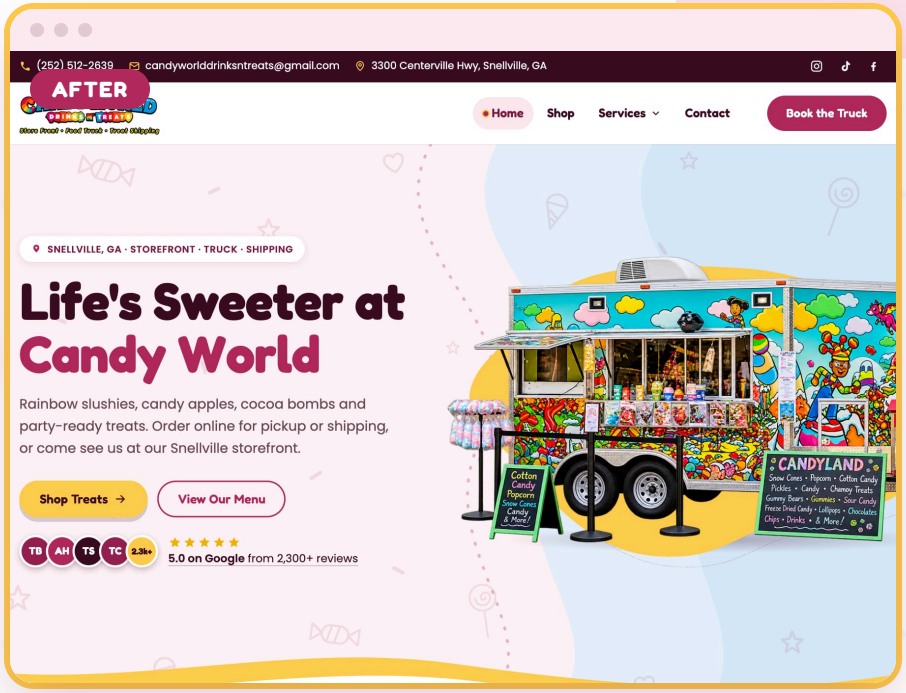

Why we did it. Your logo is a full rainbow, and using every color everywhere made the old site feel busy. We chose berry and yellow from the logo as the main colors, with baby blue as a soft background. Your photos and truck art bring in the rest of the rainbow, so the site feels fun and planned.

HEADER & HERO

The first five seconds

- A slideshow of drinks filled the first screen.
- No headline saying what Candy World is or where it is.
- Only one small Contact button, on one slide.
- Menu links mixed jobs, like “Menu | Contact Us.”

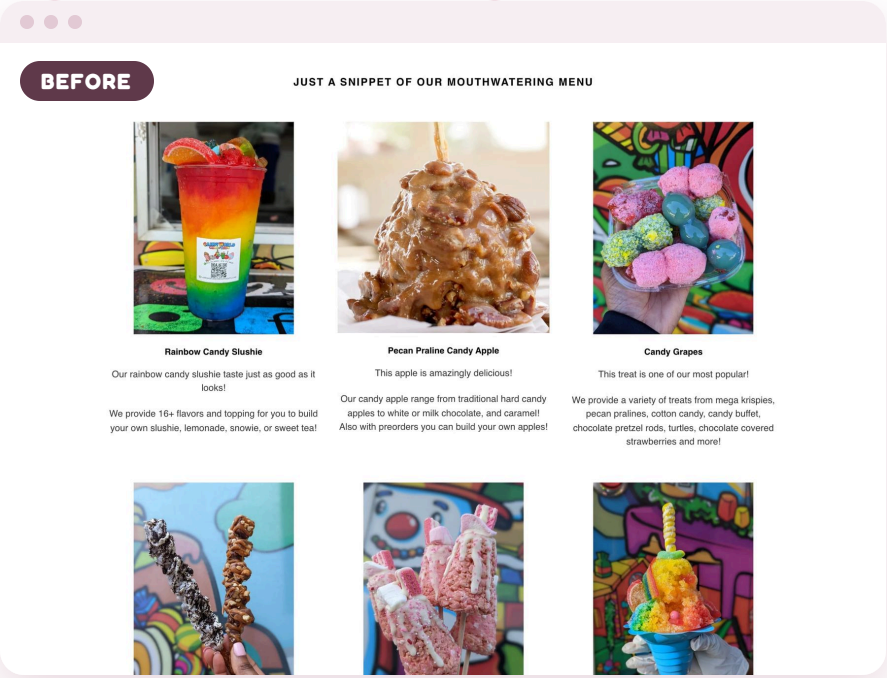

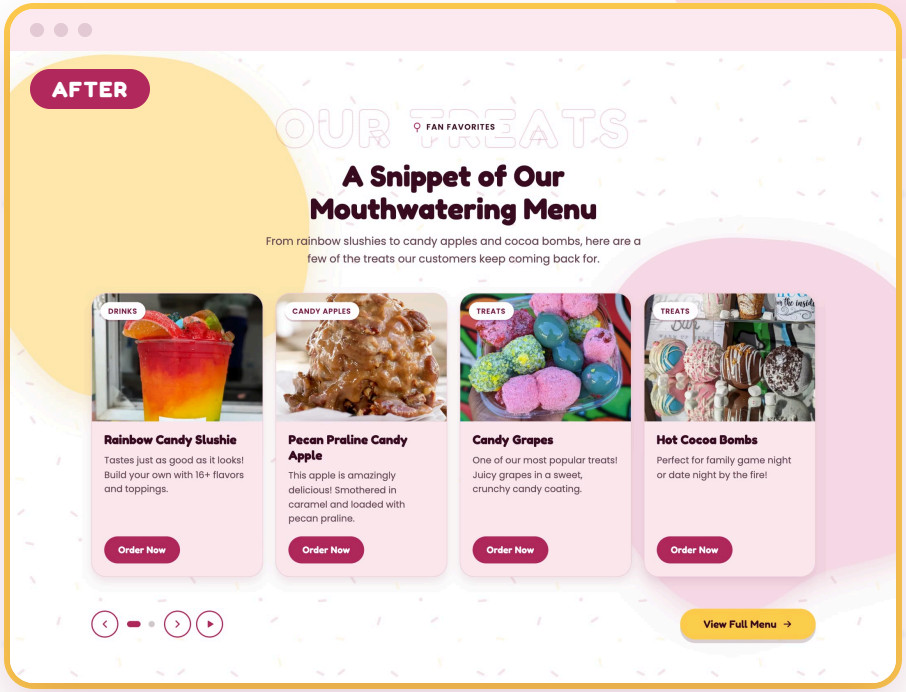

- A top bar with your phone, email, address and socials.
- Simple menu: Home, Shop, Services, Contact, plus a Book the Truck button.
- Headline “Life’s Sweeter at Candy World” with your location.
- Shop Treats and View Our Menu buttons, and your 5.0 Google rating.
- Your truck drives slowly back and forth on a candy blob.

Why we did it. Visitors decide in a few seconds whether to stay. The new hero answers what you are, where you are and what to do next right away, and it leads with your strongest proof: the 5-star rating. The header also floats as you scroll, so ordering and booking are always one tap away.

FEATURED TREATS

Treats come right after the hero

- Store hours came right after the slideshow, before anything to buy.
- The menu preview had great photos but no order buttons.
- Some items shown were catering-only, with no way to tell at a glance.

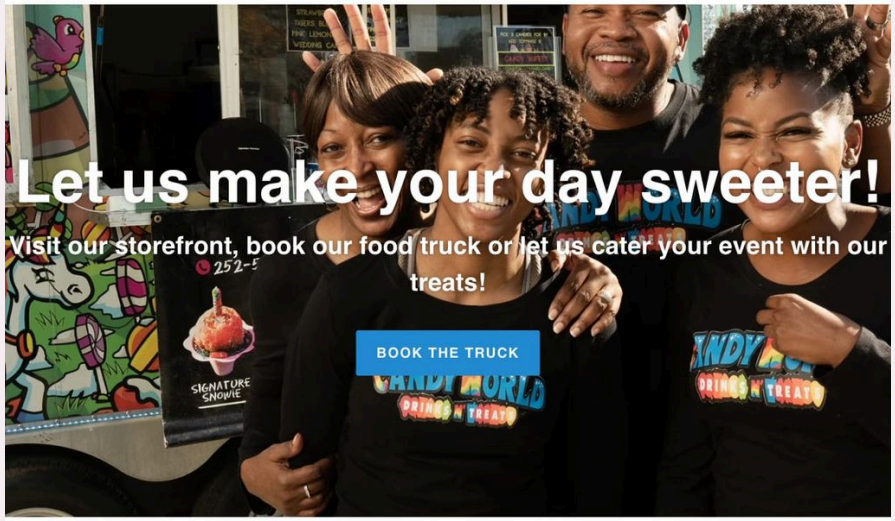

- Eight fan favorites as cards, using your photos and descriptions.
- Each card has a category tag and an Order Now button.
- Cards slide to the next set every 5 seconds, and swipe on phones.
- A View Full Menu button for everything else.

Why we did it. Once visitors know who you are, the next thing they want is the treats. Putting them second, with a button on every card, turns “that looks good” into an order.

SERVICES

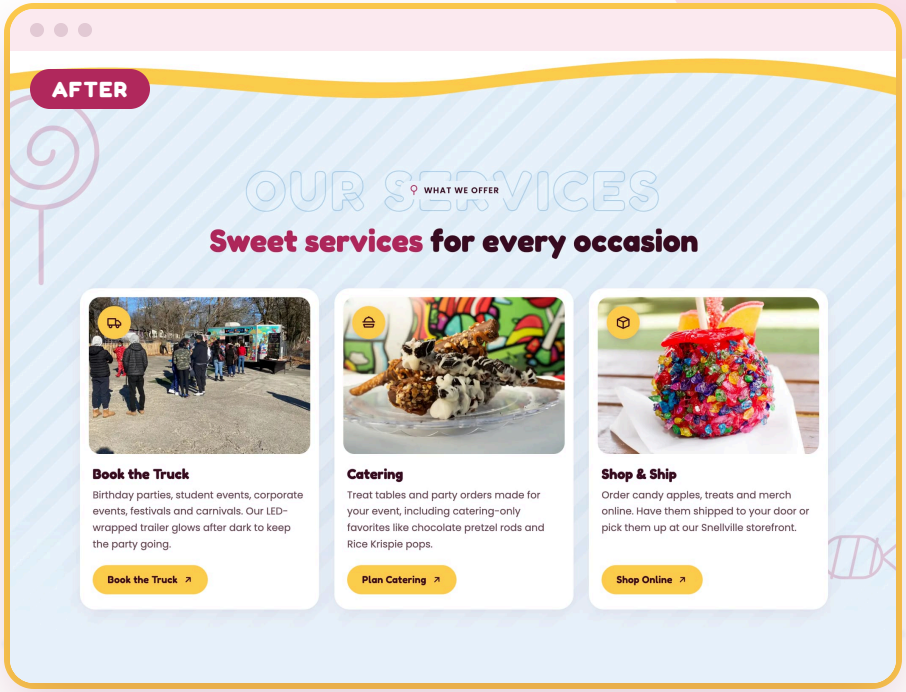

Three services, three clear choices

BEFORE

- Booking info was a banner with text over a busy photo, hard to read.
- Truck bookings, catering and online orders weren't separated.
- A short "Explore" paragraph didn't lead anywhere.

AFTER

- Three cards: Book the Truck, Catering and Shop & Ship.
- Each has its own photo, a short description and its own button.
- A soft baby blue background sets this section apart.

Why we did it. Booking the truck, catering an event and ordering online are different jobs. Giving each one its own card makes it obvious what you offer and exactly where to click.

ABOUT

Your story, front and center

BEFORE

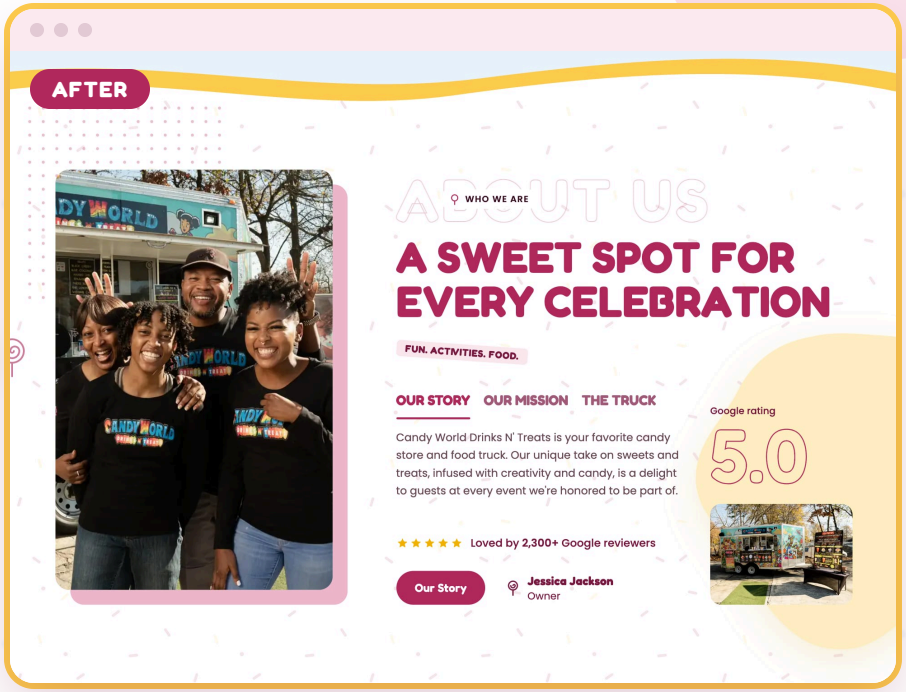

Candy World Drinks N' Treats

Candy World Drinks N' Treats is your favorite Mobile c truck! Our unique take on serving sweets and treats in with creativity and candy is a delight to guests at ever we are honored to be a part of. Candy World is availab bookings at private events including birthday parties, engagements, corporate events as well as outdoor fes
and carnivals. Our spectacular experience does not er night falls. Our LED' covered custom wrapped trailer g the dark to keep the party going!

- The About details were inside a flyer image.
- Google can't read words in a picture, and it was hard to read on phones.
- No photo of you and your team.

AFTER

- Your team photo, big, with a pink frame.
- Your story in real text, with tabs for Our Story, Our Mission and The Truck.
- Wording taken from your own site and flyer, including "Fun. Activities. Food."
- Your 5.0 rating and your name as owner.

Why we did it. People buy from people. Showing your team and telling your story builds trust before anyone orders, and now that the text is real text, Google can read it too.

REVIEWS

Letting your customers talk

BEFORE

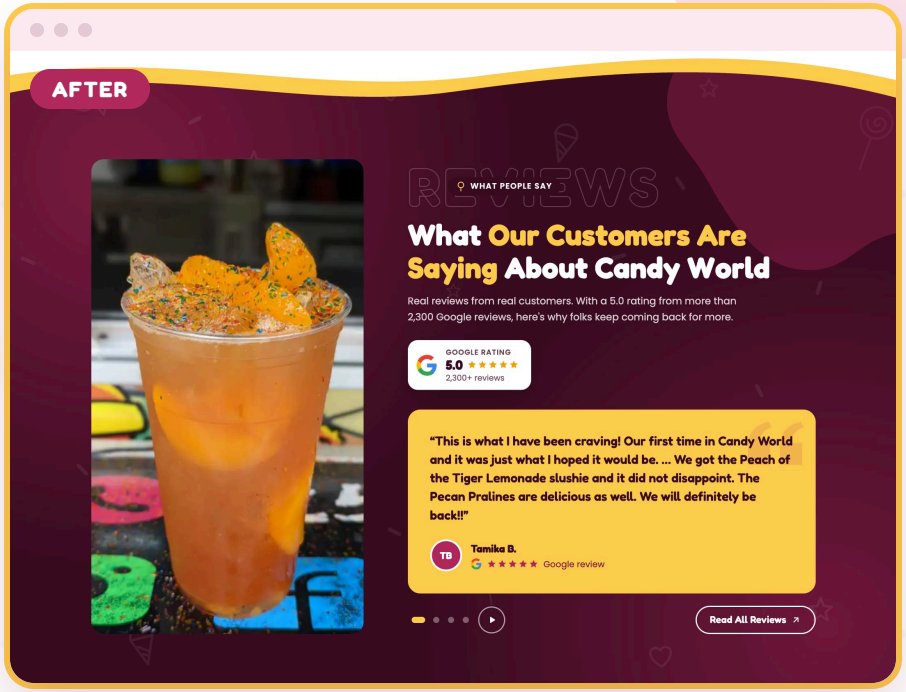

5.0 ★★★★★

2,335 Google reviews

Not shown anywhere on the old homepage

- Your 5.0 rating from 2,335 Google reviews wasn't on the site.
- Visitors had to leave the site to find out what others thought.

AFTER

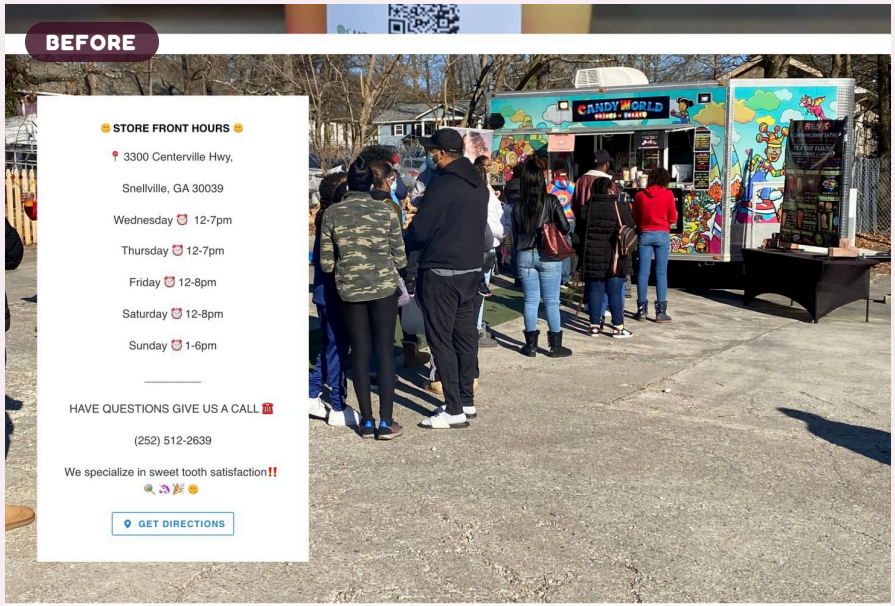

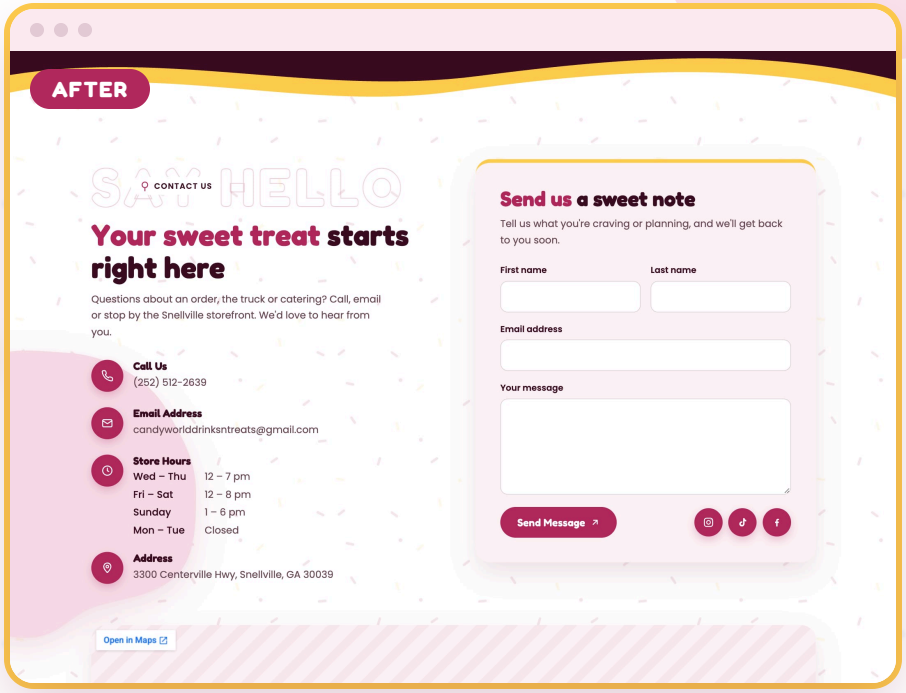

- Real 5-star Google reviews from your customers, rotating every 7 seconds.
- The photo beside each review changes with it.
- A Google rating badge and a Read All Reviews button that opens your Google listing.
- The same reviewers' initials appear in the hero.

Why we did it. Your reviews are your biggest selling point. New customers trust other customers more than anything a business says about itself, so we put your real reviews right on the homepage.

CONTACT & MAP

Everything to visit or reach you

- Hours, address and phone sat in a box near the top of the page.
- No map, and no way to send a message from the homepage.
- The menu and contact info shared one page.

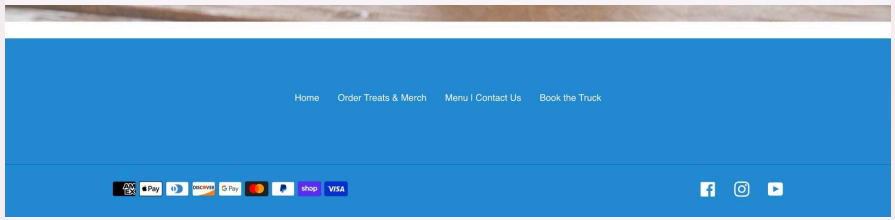

- Call, email, store hours and address, each one tap away on a phone.
- A short message form right on the homepage.
- A live Google map with your storefront pinned.
- Instagram, TikTok and Facebook beside the Send button.

Why we did it. When someone is ready to visit or ask a question, everything they need is in one place, where people expect to find it. The map only loads when visitors scroll to it, so the page stays fast.

FOOTER

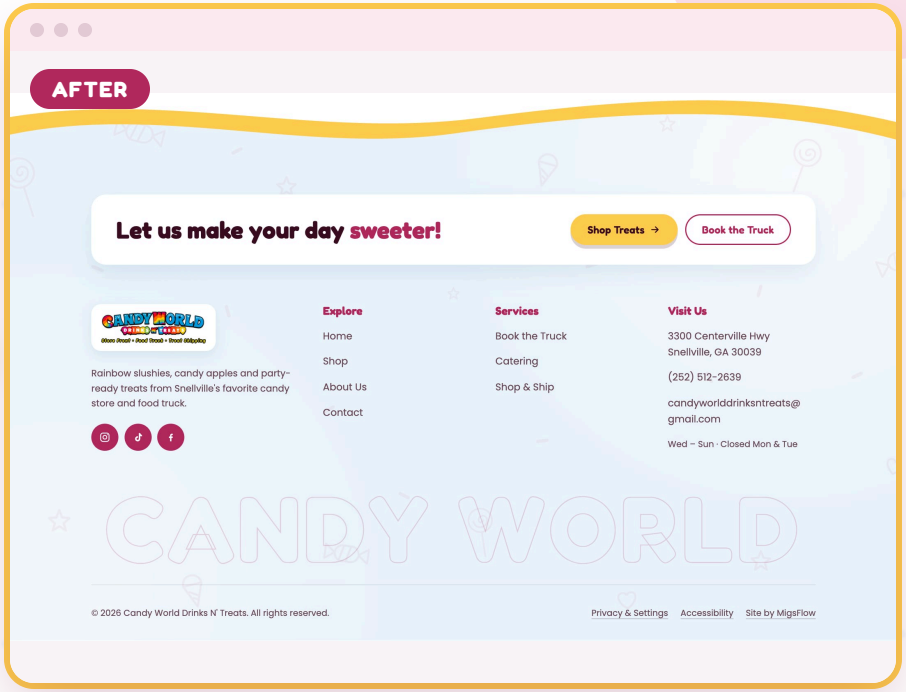

One last sweet nudge

BEFORE

- A blue bar with four links, payment icons and social icons.
- No contact details or final call to action.

AFTER

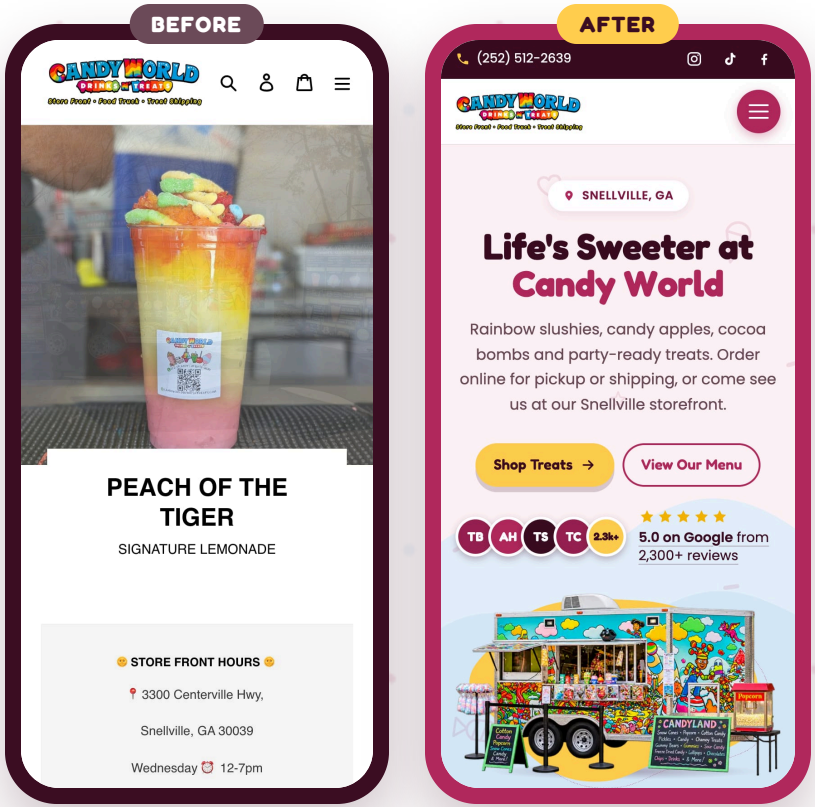

- "Let us make your day sweeter!" with Shop Treats and Book the Truck.
- Quick links, your services, address, phone, email and open days.
- Instagram, TikTok and Facebook, plus Privacy and Accessibility links.

Why we did it. The footer is the last thing visitors see. It now gives one more nudge to order or book, and repeats your contact details so nobody has to scroll back up.

MOBILE

ON YOUR PHONE

Built for phones first

Behind the scenes

Faster. Every photo is resized and compressed, and fonts load with the site. The main image now shows in about 1.5 seconds on a phone, down from 8.1.

Easier for Google to read. Your menu, story and contact info are real text instead of pictures, and your address, phone and social profiles are set up the way Google looks for them.

Looks great when shared. Texting or posting the link shows a preview of your new homepage.

Easy for everyone to use. Built to accessibility standards (WCAG 2.2 AA): it works with a keyboard and screen readers, text is easy to read, and animations turn off for anyone who prefers less motion.

Fits every screen. Phones, tablets, laptops and big monitors, with nothing sliding off the side.

Why we did it. Most of your visitors find you on their phones, often while they're out and craving something. A fast, clear phone experience is what turns those visits into orders and bookings.